What is a CSA?

What does it mean to be a member?

Community Supported Agriculture is an opportunity to obtain local food directly from the source by committing an initial investment. Member enrollment ensures that we have the necessary capital early on, which allows us to produce the highest quality food throughout the growing season. Members are investing in our infrastructure, labor, seeds, equipment and much more. The return is exclusive access to an unmatched variety of items including vegetables, fruits, eggs, meat, and baked goods.

Becoming a Sandy Valley CSA Member means:

1. Supporting your local farmer & local agriculture.
2. Reducing the distance between you and your food, cutting down on the carbon emissions and energy waste.
3. Improving your personal health by eating the most fresh, local and nutritious food available.
4. Keeping local money in the local community.
5. Saving money while increasing the value of what you're bringing home.
6. Access to unparalleled variety of products including baked goods, local meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

Sandy Valley CSA was formed due to our strong belief in sustainable agriculture. It is very important for us to provide fresh, quality produce not only for our own family, but also to other families, while preserving the land and environment for future generations.
